Exhibition Apparatus and Printing Office for Our Weather Bureau.

Mr. Edward A. Evans, Weather Director Virginia Bureau, yesterday reelved a letter from Mr. Willis L. Moore, Chief of the Weather Bureau at Washington, stating that owing to the importance of this station the department would soon put in here a full instrumental equipment tion of the wind, determining humidity, and weighing the air. The apparatus will be forwarded immediately.

Mr. Moore also stated in the same letter that he would in a few days send to this office an outfit for printing all the reports, &c., for this office and a first-class man to do the work. Mr. Evans is highly elasted because he is soon to have such a splendidly-equipped office.

Speaking of the recent extremely hot wenther, Forecaster Evans said that the free air temperature on Tuesday and Wednesday ranged from $6 to $6 degrees. Free air temperature is that temperature not affected by radiation, that coming from the sidewalks and buildings. Taking to the records, Mr. Evans showed that the highest temperature recorded in Virginia last year on July 28th was $2 at Case Charles. The following day the thermometer stood at $6 at Nottoway Courthouse. This was by no means the hottest weather of last July. At Nottoway Courthouse, This was by no means the hottest weather of last year broke all records. The very remarkable hot weather of September of last vear broke all records. The well temperature in the State was registered at Bon Air, 107 on the 19th. The 20th it was 104; Test, 106; 224, 108, and 204, 104. The thermometer went as high as 106 in Petersburg during that period, as 106 in Petersburg during that period. 20d, 104. The thermometer went as high as 103 in Petersburg during that period. 100 in Ashland, 100 in Norfolk, 104 in Nottoway Courthouse, and 102 in Alexandria. Even in the mountains of Nelson county the thermometer went as high as 103.

In 1894 the highest temperature on July 28th was registered at Richmond, it being 100. On the 29th the thermometer went still two degrees higher.

At Richmond in 1825, on July 28th, the thermometer rose to 30 and remained at that notch the following day.

In 1892, at Nottoway Courthouse, the thermometer on July 28th and 29th stood at 104 and 102, respectively.

The Virginia to Arrive Te-Day.

The steamer Virginia, of the Baltimore Steam Packet Company's service between Richmond and Baltimore, has been fully repaired, and left Baltimore yesterday afternoon on time for Richmond, with a full cargo of freight and a number of passengers. Many Baltimoreans are taking advantage of the extremely low rates made to visit the "City of Seven Hills." and the chances are that Richmond will have many visitors from the Monumental City within the next few months by the James-river route. The Virginia will probably reach Richmond this morning about 10 o'clock. General-Manager J. R. Sherwood, and Traffic-Manager E. W. Thompson will accompany the boat on its trip. Although the Baltimore Steam Packet Company has been somewhat handicapped by the unfortunate accident, it has pluckily continued its service to Richmond, and it is evident that it means business, and, as General-Manager Sherwood stated in an interview some time ago, "has come to stay."

POLICE COMMITTEE MEETING.

The Council Committee on Police held its regular monthly meeting in Room No. 13 of the City Hall least evening at 6 o'clock, with the following members present: Messrs, Lawder (sub-chairman). Blanks, and Whalen. The pay-roll of the department for the month of July was approved, and a number of current bills were ordered to be paid.

Sergeant Shinberger submitted a statement as to the financial condition of the department:

For the pay-roll, the sum of $85,777.30 was appropriated for the year, of which there has been expended $47,777.2), leaving a balance on hand of $48,065.30.

For the contingent fund $1,300 has been appropriated, of which $461.99 has been expended $2,250, of which has been expended $233.41; balance on hand, $1,316.39.

The sum of $102.50 has been collected as fines from members of the police force.

Excursions to the Seashore.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Sunday seaside excursions have been very largely patronized during the past month. Nearly twice as many people were carried to the seashore during July by the Chesapeake and Ohio route as during the same month last year. Each trip shows an increase over the one preceding.

A large crowd will doubtless go to Old Point, Euclinos Beach, Norfolk, &c., to-hule coaches, and leaves Broad-Street station at $29 A. M., and the run is made over a stone-ballast track, which insures a clean ride, in two hours.

Another Youth Missing.

Nothing has as yet been heard from Kenneth H. Morton, but it has been ascertained that Mr. Edgar Gathright, a 17-year-old youth, also left his home on last Saturday, and has not returned since.

Mr. Gathright, father of the missing hoy, is inclined to think that his son and Kenneth Morton ran off together, but Mr. Morton gives no credence to this theory, as there is six years difference in the ages of the boys. Every effort is being made to overtake the boys, but without effect, and the parents are utterly at sea as to what step to take next.

There was practically no change yesterday in the political situation in this congressional district. No new candidates were announced, nor were any names that had not already been mentioned talked about. Colonel Ellett was on the go, as he has been every day for the last week or two, and both he and his friends seemed confident of his renomination. Mr. George P. Haw is not yet actually in the field, but there seems no doubt that he will announce himself when the call of the conference of silver men, held here on Thursday, is presented to him. The gold men have not yet presented to Hon. George D. Wise the petition asking him to come cut for Congress. It is not believed that Captain Wise will become a candidate unless his claims are submitted to the Democratic primary.

It is said that a well-known Richmond man announced on Thursday that he had $5.000 to wager that Bryan would be elected next November. The gentleman stated that he might have as much as of observation eleven clear days and twenty that were cloudy or partly cloudy. In the table below will be found the mean temperature and the average amount of rainfall during the corresponding month for the past seventeen years;

Mr. Smith, before starting to the station with his clients, took the money that they had left as his fees, and right small fees they were, but while en route to the depot one of the "fakirs" said to Mr. Smith. "What are you going to do for us?" "Oh," said the ex-Commonwealth's Attorney, "I shall pay your railway fare and give you a Pullman-car berth to New York, and will also give you enough money to buy a couple of meals." "Well, Mr. Smith." exclaimed the little fellow who had been doing the querying, "you are a pretty good pickpocket yourself, aren't you?"

"Uncle" David C. Richardson, who, on account of pressing business engagements, was only able to remain with the party one week, and returned last Friday. Not a single accident was recorded in the multiplicity of events that transpired during the two weeks, and, all in all, the trip was most successful. The fishing was never better, and if all the tales told last night by some of the party be given credence, the inhabitants of the sea are even as large now as they were during the days before man was born, ac-

The Venlee of To-Day.

When the English-speaking and English-reading visitors to Venice, for whom this paper is written, overcome the feeling that they are predestined to fall into one of the canals before they leave the city; when they grow accustomed to being driven about in a bearse-shaped, one-manned row-boat; when they have been shown all the traditional sights, have been shown to be a sight of the dong thin, black rat-tailed straw-covering things the Venetians call cigars—when they have seen and have done all these, they will find themselves much more interested in the house in which Byron lived, and in the perfectly restored palace in which Browning died, than in the half-ruined, wholly decayed mansions of all the Dosse who were ever Lord Mayors of Venice. The guide-books tell us where Falleri plotted and where Poscari fell, where Desdemona suffered, and where Shylock traded; but they give us no hint as to where Sost lodged, or where Rogers breakfasted, or what was done here by the many English-speaking men of letters who have made venice known to us and properly understood. Upon these chiefly it is my purpose here to dwell.

The modern Venetian dealers in second-hand portraits and the vendors of brica-brac of all kinds seem to have learned their strict and universal economy of truth from the memorial tablets over their shops. If you are offered here an article of original, home-made, present-time antiquity for 6 lire, you may depend upon getting it for 21-2 lire, and you may be sure that it costs you, even then, about twice as much as it is worth. If an inscription in old Latin or in choice Italian venetian hero of sword or pen, you may put down in your diary that he probably visited next door, or that he died over the way.

Cecil Platt's Brave Exploit.

Cecil Platt's Brave Exploit.

No doubt those two consuls one British, one American) who are reported to be of Mr. Dana's party add interest to his travels. Consuls judiciously selected are very good company, for they are persons of experience in affairs, and learn many useful and agreeable things in the course of their business. A London dispatch, dated July 8, 1896, tells of the brave exploit of a consular-bred youth, Mr. Cecil Platt, of Cincinnati. He was aboard a yacht that was one of the competitors in a sailing match, on July 4th, in Queenstown harbor. Nineteen yachts were in the race; a man fell overboard from one of them, and young Platt jumped in after him. He got his man, but another yacht came along and sailed over him in the water. Platt had to let go, and the other man was drowned, but he was rescued himself, and report says his conduct is excelent of at Oueenstown as being "chargiven credence, the inhabitants of the sea are even as large now as they were during the days before man was born, according to geology.

The schooner was towed from Richmond on July 18th to Hampton Roads by one of the Cld Dominion steamers, and there she set sail for Cobb's Island, the headquarters during the trip. Remaining at Cobb's several days, a trip was taken up the beach, and many points of interest were visited. In fact, several trips were taken on the little craft, but it remained for the most part anchored off the Island. During this miniature sea voyage many experiences were recorded, far too many to mention. They will be placed upon history's pages, and will be related by the firesides next winter.
